A MESSAGE FROM CONGRESSWOMAN STACEY E. PLASKETT

It is an honor and a special privilege to welcome you to the official Swearing-In Ceremony for the Honorable Justices Rhys S. Hodge, Maria M. Cabret and Ive A. Swan.

The establishment of the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands dates back more than 30 years to 1984 when the United States Congress authorized the establishment of an appellate court for the Virgin Islands. In 2004, it became the highest court in the Virgin Islands and assumed its appellate jurisdiction in 2007.

Justices Hodge, Swan and Cabret carry the distinct honor of being the first three justices of the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands after their nomination and subsequent investiture in 2006. Together, they have more than 100 years of combined legal service and experience in the Virgin Islands Community. They are without a doubt legal stalwarts and the best to preside over our territory's highest court.

On behalf of the members of the 115th Congress, my family and staff, I extend my congratulations to the Honorable Justices Rhys S. Hodge, Maria M. Cabret and Ive A. Swan on their swearing-in to the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE PRESIDENT

It is a pleasure, on behalf of the 32nd Legislature of the Virgin Islands, to welcome you to the official swearing-in ceremony for the Justices of the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands of the United States.

Honorable Justices Rhys Hodge, Maria Cabret and Ive Swan were reconfirmed to their positions of leadership to our highest court in the Virgin Islands. Their illustrious and distinguished careers individually and collectively continue to ground our Territory's fairly new appellate court in a path of excellence.

The court makes its ten-year anniversary on the monumental 100th year anniversary of the 1917 Transfer of the former Danish West Indies to the United States of America. As we reflect on this Centennial milestone, we recall how far the people of the Territory have come in deciding our own matters in the judicial system. Our highest Court has evolved from three Police Courts that were established in 1921 in the historic towns of Charlotte Amalie, Frederiksted, and Christiansted that mainly favored the plantocracy and mercantile class. Many of our leaders fought bitterly for the reforms we enjoy today, and the basic right of due and fair process.

The Legislature in 2004, through Bill No. 2 1-025, Act. No. 6687, established the Supreme Court in the Virgin Islands, which was authorized by Congress twenty years before. Through it all, final orders and judgments of the Superior Court can be appealed, reviewed, and decided. In 2016, the Legislature's passing of Bill No. 31-0255, Act. No. 7888, led to the administrative unification of our judicial system under the auspices of the Supreme Court, a reform that brings us up to date with the rest of the nation.

Congratulations to the Justices and to their extended families, friends, and to all who have come to witness history in the making. Let us continue the progress we have made in our judiciary, other branches of government, and elsewhere in our society.

Dear Justices Hodge, Cabret, and Swan:

On behalf of the District Court of the Virgin Islands, it is my great pleasure to add my voice to the chorus of well-wishers celebrating and offering words of congratulations on this auspicious occasion of your official swearing-in- for the second time-as Justices of the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands.

In 2007, your appointment as Justices of the then newly-created Supreme Court ushered in a new and exciting chapter in the history of the Territory's judicial system. Since that time, you have worked tirelessly-individually and collectively- in pioneering the development of Virgin Islands jurisprudence. The tremendous progress that has been made in this regard in the past ten years as a result of your efforts is a source of pride within the Virgin Islands legal community as well as in the community at large. We look forward to your continued leadership as you embark on this next phase in your tenures as Justices of the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands.

Again, our warmest congratulations on this momentous occasion. My colleagues and I on the federal bench look forward to continuing to join forces with you as we perform our respective roles in the administration of justice in our beloved Virgin Islands.

Sincerely,

Honorable Rhys S. Hodge

Rhys Shelley Hodge is the current Chief Justice of the Virgin Islands. He was originally sworn into office on December 18, 2006, having been nominated by Governor Charles W. Turnbull to the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands, and recently reappointed to the Supreme Court by Governor Kenneth E. Mapp.

Chief Justice Hodge was born on the British island of Anguilla. He attended the East End Elementary School and received his high school education at the Valley Secondary School, from which he graduated in 1965.

Following his graduation from high school, he migrated to St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands, where he attended the College of the Virgin Islands. In 1968, he transferred to Kansas State University, where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1971. Upon his graduation from Kansas State University, he returned to St. Thomas where he later met Jean Dalmida, a native of St. John. They were married in 1973 and have raised four children: Regine, Joseph, Jerome and Larise.

Chief Justice Hodge obtained his legal education at the Rutgers University School of Law - Camden, New Jersey, where he graduated with a Juris Doctor degree in 1977. There, he excelled in his law studies, receiving the American Jurisprudence Award for obtaining the highest grade of his class in constitutional law. He was elected by the student body to be the sole student representative on the school's Scholastic Standing Committee, which adjudicated appeals of students dismissed or placed on academic probation.

After graduating law school, Chief Justice Hodge returned to St. Thomas, where he served as a law clerk to the Chief Judge of the District Court of the Virgin Islands, the late Honorable Almeric L. Christian, from 1977 to 1979. Afterwards, he opened his own law firm, "The Law Offices of Rhys S. Hodge" in 1979, with which he maintained an active private law practice for the next twenty-one years. During his time in private practice, Chief Justice Hodge remained active in the Virgin Islands Bar Association, where he served as President, Secretary, a member of the Board of Governors, Chair of the Continuing Legal Education Committee, and Chair of the Ethics & Grievance Committee. He also served as a member of the Virgin Islands Committee of Bar Examiners, and a member of the Lawyers Advisory Committee of the District Court of the Virgin Islands.

In addition to being admitted to the practice of law in the Virgin Islands, Chief Justice Hodge has been admitted to the bars of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit and the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. He is an active member of the American Bar Association, the National Bar Association, the American Bar Foundation, the American Judges Association, the American Law Institute and the Conference of Chief Justices.

He has been active in community affairs serving from 1981-2000 as a member of the Executive Board of the V.I. Council of the Boy Scouts of America and as its President in 1991. He has also served in the past as a member of the Board of Directors of the V.I. Council of the Girls Scouts of the U.S.A. and Vice President of the Board of Trustees of the Virgin Islands Montessori School.

Chief Justice Hodge was first sworn in as a judge of the Superior Court on June 23, 2000. On July 1, 2006, Chief Justice Hodge became the Presiding Judge of the Superior Court, a position he held until his appointment to the Supreme Court. As Presiding Judge, and later as Chief Justice, he served as a member of the Conference of the Chief Justices. Chief Justice Hodge is the seventh most senior member of the fifty-six member Conference, and chairs its Court Management Committee.

On July 19, 2006, Chief Justice Hodge, together with Justices Maria M. Cabret and Ive A. Swan, were nominated by Governor Turnbull as the three initial justices of the new Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands. The Governor designated him to be the first Chief Justice for a four year term. On October 27, 2006, Chief Justice Hodge and Justices Cabret and Swan were unanimously confirmed by the Twenty-Sixth Legislature as justices of the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands for terms of ten years each. All three justices were sworn into office as justices of the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands on December 18, 2006. Chief Justice Hodge was re-elected to subsequent terms as Chief Justice of the Virgin Islands commencing December 18, 2010, December 18, 2013, and December 18, 2016.

On November 2, 2016, Governor Mapp announced his intent to renominate Chief Justice Hodge, as well as Justice Cabret and Justice Swan, to a second ten-year term on the Supreme Court. Chief Justice Hodge and his colleagues were unanimously confirmed by the 31st Legislature on December 20, 2016.

She began her legal career as a law clerk for Judge Raymond L. Finch at the Territorial Court of the Virgin Islands. History of the Court

Supreme Court OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS

Congress in 1984 authorized the establishment of an appellate court for the Virgin Islands to be created by the Legislature in its discretion.

In 2004 the Legislature, acting on such Congressional authority, established the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands as the highest court of the Virgin Islands. The Court assumed its appellate jurisdiction on January 29, 2007. The court presently consists of a chief justice and two associate justices. The court is assisted by the service of active judges of the Superior Court and of retired judges of courts of record of the Virgin Islands who serve as Designated Justices to fill vacancies on the court caused by disqualifications or other absences.

The Virgin Islands Supreme Court is the equivalent of a state supreme court. As the highest court for the Virgin Islands, the Supreme Court is authorized to review all final orders, judgments and specified interlocutory orders of the Superior Court of the Virgin Islands. Cases before the court are determined by three justices and a decision by two justices is required for a decision of the court.

The Supreme Court has exclusive jurisdiction over members of the legal profession and of admissions to the bar. The Court oversees the established organized integrated Virgin Islands Bar Association and has the power to approve the rules regarding attorney discipline. The Court also approves the rules regarding attorney conduct and has established rules governing the admission of members of the Virgin Islands Bar Virgin Islands Bar; and the discipline of attorneys and the practice of law in the Virgin Islands.

Brief History OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS JUDICIARY

The judiciary of the Virgin Islands is now on the brink of becoming a twenty-first century court system, with a framework that was established almost a century ago. Having evolved from three Police Courts in the cities of Frederiksted, Christiansted, and Charlotte Amalie, the current system boasts the Superior Court of the Virgin Islands in each judicial district of St. Thomas/St. John and St. Croix and now, a Supreme Court of the U.S. Virgin Islands that will be tasked with hearing the appeals from the Superior Court territory-wide.

The beginnings of the Virgin Islands judiciary were rooted in the 1921 Codes of St. Thomas and St. John and St. Croix which established the police courts.

On July 22, 1954, the Revised Organic Act of the Virgin Islands was amended and approved. Section 21 of that Act vested judicial power in a court of record called the District Court of the Virgin Islands and in any lower courts established by local law. The three Police Courts were then abolished and two municipal courts were established: one for St. Thomas and St. John and one for St. Croix.

After a decade of this judicial structure, the make-up of the local judiciary matured yet again. On March 1, 1965, the two municipal courts were combined into a single court called the Municipal Court of the Virgin Islands.

On September 9, 1976, the Legislature of the Virgin Islands established the forerunner of today's Superior Court of the Virgin Islands in accordance with Act. No. 3876 (§ 5, Sess. L. 1976, p. 17.) The Municipal Court of the Virgin Islands' name was changed to the Territorial Court of the Virgin Islands. Almost three decades later, the Territorial Court gained a substantial amount of judicial autonomy. This was authorized by the 1984 amendments to the Revised Organic Act of 1954 and triggered by local enactments by the Legislature as well as the Governor of the Virgin Islands.

On October 1, 1991, the Territorial Court obtained jurisdiction over all local civil actions in accordance with 4 V.I. Code Ann. § 76(a). Effective January 1, 1994, pursuant to Act 5890, the Legislature of the Virgin Islands granted original jurisdiction in all criminal matters to the Territorial Court.

On October 29, 2004, Act No. 6687 established a Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands and officially changed the name of the Territorial Court of the Virgin Islands to the Superior Court of the Virgin Islands.

On July 19, 2006, Governor Charles W. Turnbull, Ph.D nominated the Honorable Rhys S. Hodge, Honorable Maria M. Cabret and Honorable Ive Arlington Swan, as the first three justices of the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands and designated the Honorable Rhys S. Hodge as the first Chief Justice. On October 27, 2006, the Twenty-Sixth Legislature of the Virgin Islands unanimously confirmed the three legal stalwarts, setting a monumental precedent in Virgin Islands history.

The investiture of the first Justices of the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands occurred on December 18, 2006, and not only made an indelible mark in the history of the Virgin Islands, but complements the progressive framework of the local judiciary that was established more than half a century ago.

The Virgin Islands' Judiciary has now joined the other states and territories of the union with a judicial structure that speaks to its own progressive autonomy. Its current status is due in no small measure to the tireless efforts of the governors, delegates, and law makers of this territory, and the dedicated persistence of the territory's esteemed jurists, both past and present, whose commitment to the administration of justice is only paralleled by their commitment to the people of the Virgin Islands.
